THE SCAVENGER

NAME

BACKGROUND

An augmented data miner on the run from their old friends.

Following the structural implosion of the great unified server farm on Earth's moon, you're one of the desperate people who venture deep into the twisted wreckage to try and salvage usable data. It's the fashion amongst successful data miners to blow their earnings on flashy cybernetic upgrades: pneumatic arms, multi-spectrum energy scanners wired up to their brains, and so on.

You joined up with a crew and found a valuable deposit of 2090s movies to fence. When you decided to screw your associates out of their cut, they caught you in the act. Now penniless and on the run, you signed up to a corporate gig on board Charon in an attempt to get out of the blasted remains of the Sol system intact.
