

THE ENFORCER

CHARACTER

NAME

BACKGROUND

A gig economy cop who got burned.

You were a well-respected agent on VIGIL, a freelance justice app created by the OBOL Corporation. The app allows users to report legal or societal infractions and empowers agents to apprehend subjects and bring them to district-specific processing centres for their punishment – in exchange for a tidy bonus for both the person who reported the crime and the agent who brought in the criminal.

Things were going well – you had your own flat and a deposit down on a dog – but when you arrested the wrong person, their influential friends review-bombed you into poverty. You fell behind on your rent, and out of desperation (and a desire for a new start) you leveraged what little sway you had with OBOL to secure a placement onboard Charon. There's nothing left in the Hebridean Arcologies for you anymore; maybe you'll have more luck in Tartarus Gate.
