

Name

Background

A mysterious child of the shadows.

Abandoned on the steps of a remote monastery as a baby, you never knew true family growing up. The monks begrudgingly took care of you, but as you matured, you were often left to your own devices. You spent your childhood exploring the hidden passages of the church, spying on the acolytes, and stalking the graveyard. Given the monks made it clear that you were to stay out of sight, you learned the art of stealth; your footsteps betrayed barely a whisper on the stone.

Once you were old enough to leave your wretched childhood behind, you travelled to the nearest city and approached the wealthy members of high society to offer your services as a spy. You made a profit from reporting the illicit affairs and backroom dealing that you witnessed from out of view. When the opportunity to become part of a travelling band of adventurers arrived, you couldn't resist the call to a new beginning that would take you far from the sordid secrets of nobles and your lonely life in the shadows.
